Washington, D.C. – Today, Congressman Sires announced allocations for critical Preparedness Grants awarded through the Department of Homeland Security's Federal Emergency Management Agency for Fiscal Year 2009. More than $80 million was allocated in federal funding to assist state and local governments as well as private industry in strengthening community preparedness. Awards will be made on a rolling basis over the summer.

"New Jersey has the most dangerous two miles in America in terms of security threats," said Congressman Sires. "These grants are critical to our area and will go a long way towards making our communities safer and more protected."

The FY 2009 Preparedness Grants underline this effort by focusing on improving strategic planning and preparedness and measuring performance.
